The complete continuity between magic and religion has been a postulate of modern anthropology at least since early 1930s. [c] [11] The perspective of modern anthropology towards religion is the projection idea , a methodological approach which assumes that every religion is created by the human community that worships it, that "creative activity ascribed to God is projected from man". [12]

Magical thinking in various forms is a cultural universal and an important aspect of religion. Magic is prevalent in all societies, regardless of whether they have organized religion or more general systems of animism or shamanism. Religion and magic became conceptually separated with the development of western monotheism, where the distinction arose between supernatural events sanctioned by mainstream religious doctrine and magic rooted in folk belief or occult speculation. In pre-monotheistic
